Black Prince Fife and Drum Corps Will Head Summit, N. J. Firemen In Parade Here June 17.—Committee Meeting Generous Responses From Merchants And Manufacturers.

Secretary J. Philip Beichert of the local committee having in charge the arrangement for the convention of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association which will be held here in June, has received word from Union Hose Company No. 1 of Summit, N. J., that its members will come to Kingston to participate in the big firemen's parade on June 17. The Summit firemen are coming on June 17 and will remain in Kingston for four days. They will bring their American La France motor fire truck with them. The company will be accompanied by the Black Prince Fife and Drum Corps, said to have taken first prize at the St. Louis Exposition.

The program committee is meeting with much success. Merchants and manufacturers are giving the firemen the financial support which is much needed to make the convention and parade what the local committee desires it to be, the best ever held. The program committee has been divided into three sections to take care of the upper, central and lower portions of the city.

The citizen's committee has been organized and will soon begin its work. Secretary Beichert stated today that about 5,000 pieces of mail matter had been sent out by the committee including invitations to companies and individuals and notices to out of town papers. With this wide spread publicity, the committee believes that there will be an unusually large number of people here on the days of the convention.

COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN PLANS

The momentum attained in the Community Fund Campaign Friday through the three meetings held, viz. board of directors and finance committee, publicity committee and team captains is being further increased today by the work of the captains in recruiting from 250 to 300 workers who are to make a rapid and complete canvass of the city on Sunday afternoon, May 16, between the hours of 1:30 and 6.

The fact that the canvass is to be made in one afternoon appeals strongly to the workers who like to do big things quickly and see their task accomplished before the end of the day in which it is begun. This is a new departure in campaign work in Kingston and is exciting a great deal of favorable comment.

The captains by wards are: First ward, Charles Warren. Second, Charles Ramsey. Third, P. H. Carey. Fourth, George Canfield. Fifth, Harry Staples. Sixth, Dr. J. F. Larkin. Seventh, John Rowland. Eighth, Frank Thompson. Ninth, Louis Beers. Tenth ward, Charles Lewis. Eleventh, Capt. Herbert Young. Twelfth ward, Arthur Burns. Thirteenth ward, Fred Lange. Preliminary plans for the work of the advance subscription committee, of which Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck is chairman, were made at the meeting of the directors and finance committee yesterday afternoon.

The advance subscription committee plan to complete its work by Friday, May 14, and to make its report at the meeting of team workers which will be held in the Y. M. C. A. on Friday evening.

SUGAR SHORTAGE NOT JUSTIFIED

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, May 8.—Sugar famine in practically all large cities of the east, in the face of government figures showing unprecedented sugar imports during the past month, were reported to the department of justice today. Appeals for relief came from every quarter.

New moves to trace stocks, known to be in the country, were authorized by department of justice officials. No reason could be assigned for the present sugar shortage in practically every locality.

Officials reviewed reports of refiners, hoping to trace large shipments, supposed to have been diverted by speculators. This was a continuation of the probe that has been in progress for several days, officials working quietly to fix the identity of individuals who are chief participants in "cornering" available sugar stocks.

Assistant Attorney General Howard E. Figg, just returned from New York, with data obtained from a conference with principal refiners, said vigorous prosecutions will be made in every case reported of jobbers and brokers guilty of manipulating the sugar market, through resale operations. A large number of cases are to be pressed by district attorneys involving violation of the Lever act.

DEALER'S PROFIT ON SUGAR SALES

Buffalo, N. Y., May 7, 1920. In view of the fact that the wholesale and retail price of sugar has advanced to from 20 to 28 cents per pound, I wish to announce that a maximum gross margin of profit of 1 1/2% on a pound of sugar to the wholesaler and 2 1/2% a pound to the retailer, above cost delivered at the freight terminal at the point of destination will be allowed.

It is a well known fact that the wholesaler and retailer must, due to the increased price to them, invest more capital in the sugar business. Heretofore the margin of profit allowed has been a maximum gross profit of 10 to the wholesaler and 20 to the retailer.

It is hereby announced that no combination sales with sugar shall be allowed.

The averaging of prices of two or more different invoices of sugar shall be permitted.

These rulings shall be effective immediately for all wholesale and retail grocers in the state of New York outside of New York city.

Very truly yours,

JAS. B. STAFFORD.

Fair Price Commissioner for the State of New York outside of New York City.

R. R. MEN DEMAND $2,500 MINIMUM

Smallest Sum on Which a Family Can Live in Decency and Comfort Says Economist Lauck.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, May 8.—The railroad brotherhoods and unions, through their representative, W. Jett Lauck, consulting economist, today presented a demand to the federal railroad labor board for a minimum wage of $2,500 a year for every one of the 2,500,000 railroad employees.

Lauck declared that $2,500 a year is the very least upon which an American family can live in decency and the lowest reasonable degree of comfort, with living costs as they are.

He asked that immediate relief be granted on this basis and to make quick action possible, that the board curtail its examination of wage detail and proceed immediately to the termination of the question of what constitutes a living wage.

He declared that the combined increases asked, amounting to more than a billion dollars a year, would cause no appreciable boost in the cost of living when the railroad companies increased rates proportionately to meet them, provided that profiteers were not allowed to take advantage of the situation.

Lauck's move, following a survey of wages, profits and data, full of revelations as to profiteering, caused a sensation.

"The public is weary, just as we are weary, of past opportunistic policies in wage adjustment, of half way expedients, devised to meet a situation temporarily, without regard to fundamental principles," said Lauck.

"The public wishes the railroad controversy settled soundly, equitably and on a long time, farseeing basis."

"We challenge anyone to deny that flagrant, indefensible profiteering has been the rule with organized capital and middlemen both since and during the war, and that the public has been and is now virtually at the mercy of insatiable speculators and conscienceless ghoulies; that wage increases have been the result and not the cause of this; that the purchasing power of the dollar is actually less than it was before the war."

He said the unions request for a minimum wage of $2,500 was based on investigations of the government and quoted a budget compiled by Royal S. Meeker, United States commissioner of labor statistics, showing that a family of five today needs $2,533 a year to live with a minimum degree of comfort.

Lauck said there was now effective anti-profiteering legislation before congress, placed there by the president.

He urged the board to recommend establishment of government price-fixing agencies, like the food and fuel administration and war industries board during the war "to control other industries just as your board now controls railroads and labor."

CHARGES PAPER SUPPLY CORNERED

President of American Press Association Says Manufacturers Have Conspired to Regulate Production—Country Dailies May be Forced to Discontinue.

Charging that the newsprint supply had been cornered and that the manufacturers had conspired to regulate production and force the already high prices to continue mounting, Cortland Smith of New York, president of the American Press Association, suggested that either the department of justice or the federal trade commission make an immediate investigation of conditions in the paper market.

Mr. Smith told the senate committee, which is investigating the shortage of newsprint, that the shortage is bringing many of the smaller newspapers of the country to the verge of disaster because they cannot afford to pay the high prices asked for in the open market.

"The country press is fighting with its back to the wall," he testified, "and unless relief is given soon it is a virtual certainty that many papers will have to discontinue. Less than half of the country press will be able to survive unless there is some change in the situation. I believe it is the duty of congress to take drastic action of some sort."

F. R. Moses, publisher of the Marshall (Mich.) Chronicle, and representing twenty-one small dailies in that state, told the committee that half of these publications would be forced to suspend on October 1, and all of them by January 1, unless the situation was relieved. The publishers cannot buy newsprint for less than 14 1/2 cents a pound, and such price, he said, is "confiscatory."

The federal trade commission's findings in its investigation of the newsprint paper situation was sent to the department of justice Friday.

Our Method of Train Protection

AN engineman's hand on the throttle will start a train running, but if that train and all other trains of our system were not controlled in their starting, running and stopping, chaos would result.

OUR method of safeguarding trains in operation is the result of years of patient labor by scientists who have devoted their lives to this art. No school or college teaches it. It can be learned only in the practical school of railroading. It has been developed until to-day its certainty of operation is assured under any weather conditions, in all climates, at the Grand Central Terminal with its 2700 train-movements a day or on a single-track road with only a few trains in twenty-four hours.

TRAINS are controlled in their movement not by what the public sees—semaphore arms or lights or a combination of both, which are mechanical signals set so the engineman may read and "stop" or "proceed" with his train—but by an invisible agency called the "track circuit" of which these signals are the visible expression. The rails of the roadway are so connected with wires as to form a path for conducting electricity supplied by batteries to controlling devices known as relays.

FOR operating purposes the railroad is divided into "blocks" each having its signal. Each block is controlled by this track circuit. The signals are operated and controlled through the track circuit relay, when interrupted by the wheels and axles of the cars passing over the tracks in a given block, thus automatically safeguarding the train against interference or collision with approaching or following trains.

WHEN the tracks are clear of trains, the signal indicates "proceed" as the flow of electricity in the track circuit is uninterrupted. If the tracks should be damaged by a break, a wash-out or other accident, the interrupted track circuit would set the signals at "stop," holding up all trains until repairs were made. The track circuit and its signals are supplemented by men and machinery—the men to direct and operate, the machinery to control signals and switches.

OUR train protection system already represents an investment of several million dollars, and is being extended and improved wherever possible at considerable additional expenditure. Thus we endeavor to assure the safety of the lives and property entrusted to our care so far as modern science can do it.

THE FOREST OF THE DOZEN DADS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Cooperstown, May 8.—"The Forest of the Dozen Dads" is the prettiest forest story yet to come out of New York's campaign for the reforestation of its idle acres.

The story of the Dozen Dads and their forest is located in the region which James Fenimore Cooper made famous with his Leatherstocking Tales, and is based on the campaign in progress in Cooperstown, and other parts of Otsego county, for the growing of new forests to cover the cut over the areas of natural forest land.

Believing that idle land should produce its share of the state's lumber supply, a group of business men has organized a company to buy and reforest a tract near Cooperstown, and the first twenty acres will be planted this spring under the supervision of the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse, which through its campaign for the reforestation of Otsego county land, developed the sentiment which finally led to the Forest of the Dozen Dads and other plantings to be made in the county this year.

The group of business men, however, led by Floyd S. Barlow, manager of the county improvement association, realized that the planting of a forest for a future timber crop is a long time investment, so they decided to do the planting as an endowment insurance payable many years hence to their children.

The owners of the plantation, therefore, in forming a company to handle the new forest, made it a requirement that no stockholder should be allowed to enter the company who did not at the time of his purchase of stock, have a child under ten years of age.

So, while the twelve men who were the original stockholders in the company have a more prosaic official title, their project has come to be known as the "Forest of the Dozen Dads."

50% More Mileage

In Boston, Green & Swift Co. watched the Miller records on some hundreds of large cars. They found that Miller increased the former tire mileage from 50% to 75%. They eliminated blow-out troubles. And only six tires in each 1,000 proved disappointing to the users.

$1,000 Daily To Reduce Your Tire Cost

The Miller Tire mileage, now discussed everywhere, is not an accident.

Over $1,000 daily is spent in tests and inspections. Fifty inspectors guard against defects.

Every lot of tread stock is first vulcanized and tested in the laboratory.

Over 1,000 tires yearly are worn out in factory mileage tests.

Every tire is signed by maker and inspector, and both are penalized if a tire falls down.

Highly-paid experts spend their years in making betterments.

Mark the results

The Miller Tire is now talked everywhere. It is today's sensation.

It is winning countless contests where a score of makes are brought into comparison.

In the factory tests—radical rear-wheel tests—Miller cords last year averaged 15,000 miles.

The new Miller treads, in these tests, outwear the best of others by 25%.

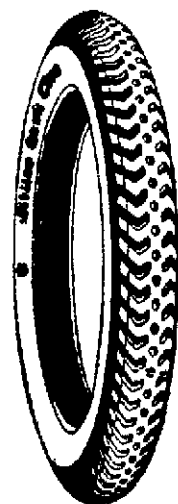

Defective Miller Tires are a rarity. Some large Miller dealers last year had not a single adjustment.

If you don't know these new-day tires you should find them out. They are saving millions of dollars to motorists.

Get one and watch it. It will give you new conceptions of a modern tire.

Banks with vault boxes to rent could make much of the experience of that innocent in Syracuse, N. Y., who, after being visited by burglars, did nothing but boast loudly that they overlooked Liberty bonds worth $1,300. A few nights later the thieves returned and cleaned up this advertised treasure.

In the Carnegie library at Bradford, Pa., recently reference books were robbed of more than 100 pages containing recipes for making intoxicating liquors. The mutilator is supposed to have been a "home brewer," but might he not have been a person determined to destroy all such recipes wherever found?

WHITE HOUSE PERQUISITES.

Attention to the Presidential office brings fame, power and opportunity for wide usefulness, but this is not all that the exalted position offers. The White House is an exceedingly comfortable berth, and on a salary of $75,000 a year a thrifty president can save quite a lot of money even in these times. A president's expenses have been estimated at about $25,000 annually, but if he chooses he need not spend so much. His chief expense is entertaining, and beyond that and the cost of food and clothing he pays for very little. He gets his palatial home with heat and light free and most of his servants are paid out of the public treasury, those furnished him gratis including even his valet and his wife's maid. The government pays for four men "chambermaids," two laundry women, the butler, the housekeeper, two chauffeurs, and a social secretary. The president himself pays only the cook, an assistant cook, a scullion, and two or three other servants—a very curious distinction or drawing of the line.

All the upkeep and new furniture for the White House are paid for by the government. The cost of entertainments is greatly cut down because the Marine band furnishes the music and the greenhouses offer an abundance of plants and cut flowers the year round. The president has a yacht at his command and the government allows him $25,000 a year for his travelling expenses. He has even a summer cottage to which he may retire if he elects to remain in Washington, located in a beautiful park surrounding the Soldiers' Home in the outskirts of the city. His doctors' bills are paid, his telegrams are free, and even stationery is furnished him gratis. All this amounts to much less than the great salaries paid European monarchs, but the president is well cared for by his country.

AN OLD BONE OF CONTENTION.

It is reported from Richmond that the president of the Chatham Episcopal Institute, objecting to a lecture on Harriet Beecher Stowe, canceled the engagement, whereupon the principal and most of the teachers, who are graduates of Northern colleges, resigned. Commenting, the Philadelphia Record says: "If the lecturer was equal to the occasion he would find much to criticize as well as to praise in the famous story of nearly seventy years ago, for Mrs. Stowe was by no means a shining light in letters. Are Virginians so sensitive about the peculiar institution of the ante-bellum South that they can not bear to have it discussed?"

The president of the Chatham Institute may not be widely representative in three times, and it is quite possible that he was not only the heated comments of an earlier time and is unacquainted with "Uncle Tom's Cabin" itself. However that may be, there are Southern writers who have discussed the book in an open-minded way. Joel Chandler Harris said in his preface to "Uncle Remus" that, while Mrs. Stowe depicted the evils of slavery, she presented the better type of slaveholder and depicted him. The following interesting reference to "Uncle Tom" may be found in the life of Alexander H. Stephens, published in 1908 by a Georgian: "The author wrote of conditions in the slave states from hearsay, the local color was factitious and unreal, the negroes were idealized white people with black skins; but as a denunciation of traffic in human beings the book still impresses its readers as one of unusual power, and its influence at the time may be readily understood."

SHRINERS HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

Ladies' Night Observed At Hotel Stuyvesant—William J. Turk Elected President—Excellent Entertainment Furnished.

Friday evening the members of the Kingston Shriners Association held their annual "Ladies' Night" at the Stuyvesant Hotel when 84 Shriners and their ladies sat down to the annual banquet. Election of officers preceded the dinner, William J. Turk being elected president; William H. Van Etten, vice-president and Fred Van Voorhies of Saugerties, secretary and treasurer. Cleon B. Murray of Ellenville was elected a member of the executive committee in place of William H. Van Etten, who became vice-president.

Following the election of officers the banquet was served to the Shriners and their lady guests. The menu was:

Lynhaven Cocktail
Cream of Tomato Aux Croustons
Celery Olives Radishes
Planked Hudson River Shad
Maitre D'Hotel
Pommes Francaise
Sliced Cucumbers
Sherbert A la Fes
Roast Ulster County Turkey
Cranberry Sauce
Mashed Potatoes
Asparagus au Beurre
Celery Salad Mayonnaise
Maple Fruit Ice Cream
Assorted Fancy Cakes
Demi Tasse

During the serving of the banquet and immediately following, a company of New York artists furnished the entertainment. Frank Sherman led the entertainers with songs and stories and "Senator" Ford of Wyoming, an unexpected guest, gave a very interesting talk. Betty North, soprano soloist, gave several selections. Carroll Wengood presided at the piano and Larry Arman gave several selections on the violin.

Amos Van Etten, whose name appeared on the menu card as toastmaster, was unable to be present and J. V. Klock acted as toastmaster. Mr. Klock stated that Mr. Van Etten and John W. Beyle, another speaker for the evening were unable to be present. Addresses were made by the Hon. Joseph M. Fowler, Potentate Comstock of Cyprus Temple and Henry Klein, who spoke in a usual humorous manner.

The music was furnished by Skea's orchestra which furnished the music for past dinners of the Ulster County Society and also entertained at the Shriner's ball.

THIS IS WHAT PUZZLES DAWE

City Hall Superintendent Places Furniture From Red Cross in City Hall, and Later Reads an Item Stating Red Cross Was Not Located There.

"Did I read an item in the newspaper the other night where the Red Cross had no intention of opening headquarters in the city hall?" asked Superintendent Richard Dawe to a visitor at the hall this morning. "You did, for I did," replied the visitor with a smile. He added "Why?"

"Look at this then," replied the genial superintendent of Kingston's largest public building throwing open the door of the former board of health office on the first floor of the hall. Inside the room were two sewing machines and several tables and stools.

"Whose property is that?" asked the visitor. "I am puzzled as to how to answer that now," replied Mr. Dawe, "but the man who delivered it said it was the property of the local Red Cross who were going to use the vacant office for a sewing room and headquarters."

"Well," replied the visitor smiling, "you should worry as long as no one else wants the room."

"Oh, I am not worrying about that part of it," replied Superintendent Dawe quickly, "but if the Red Cross is not going to open the office here I am wondering who this furniture really belongs to."

"Well," replied the visitor smiling, "reasonable period," said the visitor, "you might turn it over to the city poundmaster."

"But who is poundmaster?" asked Mr. Dawe.

"That's another puzzle," replied the visitor with a grin.

WON CONTEST.

Miss Spader's Room at School 7 Awarded Victrola Record.

Miss Spader's room was the successful contestant for the prize in the mother's attendance contest, carried on between the various rooms at five meetings of No. 7's Parent-Teachers' Association.

Suggestions for an appropriate prize were made by pupils and teachers before the event closed and this one which came from Miss Spader, generously recorded by the pupils of Room 3, will be one that the entire school may enjoy.

A Victrola record school may use when the pupils are marching out of school at the noon recess or when school closes. Miss Romney's room deserves special mention, since they came within one point of being the winners, and Miss Holmes's room was next highest.

Incidentally it may be said that anyone interested in No. 7 who happens to have good marching records which they would care to loan or donate would receive the grateful appreciation of teachers and pupils. Good music makes good marching and a change in music, as in other things, is welcome once in awhile.

"Y" BOYS BEGIN
CAMPING TRIPS

Week End Outings For Those Who Cannot Go To Summer Camp In June—Under Direction of Secretary Bridges.

The Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. has begun their week end camping trips for the boys of Kingston. The first trip is being made by the high school fellows who went out Friday afternoon and will return after breakfast Sunday morning in time for church. There will be about a dozen boys going out with the Boys' Secretary who has arranged a real menu for the five meals to be served in camp. A fine location has been secured through the kindness of Senator Walton which can be used to advantage for these week end camps for boys who work or who cannot go for an extended camp in the summer time. It will be under the supervision of the Boys' Department so that the boys will be under the leadership of men of experience in camp and outdoor life.

The Annual Boys Working Camp held under the auspices of the Boys' Department will be from June 28 to July 17 at Highland as in the past two years. The camp is conducted not for the purpose of making money—but men. The large number of boys who cannot afford the expenses of a pleasure camp has made it advisable to conduct a combined pleasure and working camp in the current region near Highland. The boys will be paid for their work according to the amount of currants picked and after their board, which will amount to about 75 cents per day is deducted the balance will be turned over to the boy in cash at the end of the week. Boys between the ages of 12 and 18 are eligible to attend the camp whether members of the Y. M. C. A. or not. Those who are not members will take out a summer membership for June, July, August and September which will cost $1.00. Information can be had from Thomas A. Bridges, camp leader and boys' work secretary at the Y. M. C. A. or from N. A. Dillinger, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. and camp athletic director.

DORT
Quality Goes Clear Through

There is, we believe, in simply case after case, a deeper reason for the selection of the Dort than the merit of the car.

True, the well-known excellence of the Dort in performance and the fact that it is known to operate at a measurably lower cost per mile are unquestionably strong influences in the purchase.

But we like to think that aside and apart from these reasons the determining factor in the decision is a profound faith in the Dort Company.

The truth of the matter is that the name Dort has become inseparably associated in the minds of people with deep-seated integrity and careful skill in manufacture.

Each added Dort that goes into use serves not only to provide fresh evidence as to the quality of the car but also to emphasize anew the high ideals of the company that builds it.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, May 8.—The Woman's Club held its regular meeting on Monday afternoon, April 26. The tentative program for next year as presented by the executive committee was unanimously adopted. The subject for the afternoon was "What Has the War Done for Literature?" Mrs. B. C. Eaton read a paper on the subject. Mrs. S. Maxwell Taylor gave several illustrations of late poetry, among them "In Flanders Fields," which Mrs. Taylor rendered with much grace and feeling. It appealed once more to our hearts not to forget the cause for which so many of our boys so bravely gave their lives. Henry Van Dyke's "Home Again" was another poem she read with great effect. To my mind the reading was much more impressive than any time I have heard it sung. By special request Mrs. Frank B. Hoonbeck recited Kipling's "If For Boys," and Elizabeth Lincoln Olin's "If for Girls." Mrs. Hoonbeck recited in a clear, distinct manner that is pleasing and effective. During the conversation following a number of books and authors were discussed. Mrs. George Hoonbeck kindly read an original poem by Miss Elsie Janis that Miss Janis had enclosed in a personal letter to Mrs. Hoonbeck. The poem was evidently an ode to her boys and Mrs. Hoonbeck read it with sympathy and feeling. Miss Janis has done, in fact is still doing, such great things for her soldier boys, helping them in many practical ways. The afternoon was a distinctly literary occasion and was warmly enjoyed by all present.

R. W. Nellie C. Kiothe, P. D. G. M. and R. W. Elmer E. Whitcomb, A. G. L. of the 11th Eastern Star District, made their official visit to Wawarone Chapter, Monday evening, May 3. While this chapter has always held a place in the front ranks, it eclipsed its past efforts in the efficiency and character of its work. The opening ceremonies and floor work were especially pleasing, and the graceful words of welcome given by the visiting members and M. Mason assured them of the cordiality of war. Chapter R. W. Rev. Hugh P. Hobson, P. A. G. L., acting as Grand Marshal, and R. W. Elmer E. Whitcomb, P. D. G. M., acting as Grand Conductor, escorted the G. O. to the East. Young ladies in snowy white, bearing horns or roses, formed an arch through which the G. O. were conducted, while "Roses of Twilight" was sung softly as they passed through the archway. Sister Freer presented the D. D. G. M. and Bro. Hobson, the A. G. L., and they were welcomed by the W. M. in a most charming manner and given the honor of the East. During the reception of the Past and Present G. O. a pretty drill was given by the young ladies with the hoops and roses. The Star Degrees were conferred upon five candidates, Miss Allard St. John, Mrs. E. J. Hanlan, Mrs. Estelle Lyons, Mrs. Jermina R. Maines and Mrs. Greta Rapp Graham. R. W. Nellie C. Kiothe gave an interesting address. At the close Sister Carolyn Clark escorted to the East Sister Nellie V. Sawyer, P. W. M., who presented Sister Kiothe with a beautiful gift of hand painted china concealed in a basket of flowers. The A. G. L. Bro. Whitcomb, then addressed the chapter and was presented with a gold knife by W. P. Bro. Buellman. Sister Grace V. Merritt, candidate for A. G. Conductor, was called upon and responded briefly in her usual able manner. Sisters Rosa of Newburgh and an A. G. M. from New York gave brief addresses. During the work a solo was beautifully rendered by Sister Clark, and a duet by Sisters Kiothe and Clark. The rooms were beautifully decorated with roses and baskets of flowers, the decorations having been in charge of the capable hands of Miss Clark, who is rather an expert in these lines. Much credit is due the W. M. Sister Smith and her very efficient staff of officers for the success of the meeting. A banquet consisting of banquet rolls, chicken salad, relatine, olives, pickles, cakes, ice cream and coffee was served. There were about 175 members and guests present, a number coming from other chapters. There were twenty from Rarohah Chapter, Liberty.

NO-HIT PITCHERS STILL SCARCER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, May 8.—No-hit games in the major leagues are not as common as old times.

The hitless pitching performance, in fact, pops up very seldom in any class of baseball company and many a pitcher comes and goes without realizing the ambition of every pitcher who ever drew on a glove—to pitch a no-hit game.

With the new pitching rules in force and freak deliveries under the ban, it is altogether probable that no-hit games will be more scarce than ever.

Of the charmed list of hurlers who have broken into the no-hit circle since away back in 1879, a few have chucked more than one hitless game, but this list is exclusive indeed.

Since the days of Richmond, of the old Worcester Club, who was first pitcher to turn in three no-hit games, pitching has changed greatly. The pitching distance has been lengthened and all restrictions regarding the delivery of the ball with the exception of the recent ban on freaks have been removed. But the fact that so few pitchers have been able to turn in more than one no-hit game over a long period of years is convincing proof that a no-hit game is the most difficult feat in baseball.

J. L. Richmond, Jimmy Corcoran and Cy Young stand alone as charmed trio of star pitchers who have turned in three no-hit games. Richmond pitched two no-hit games in 1879, one against Chicago and one against Springfield. The following year he chucked his third no-hit game against the Cleveland club.

Corcoran's no-hit performances came two years apart. He pitched his first stellar game in 1880 against Boston. In 1882 he came back with his second no-hit game and Worcester was the victim. In 1884 he pitched his last no-hit contest against Providence.

Cy Young's no-hit games came in 1897, 1901 and 1905 against Cincinnati, Philadelphia and New York.

Seven big league pitchers have twice reached the no-hit goal since 1880, starting with Galvin, of the old Buffalo Nationals. The list includes Atkinson, of the Athletics; Terry, of Brooklyn; Breitenstein, of St. Louis and Cincinnati; Mathewson, of the Giants; Addie Joss, of the Cleveland Americans, and Tom Hughes, of the Boston Braves.

The complete list of no-hit games in which no player reached first base shows but seven such performances. George Bradley, who pitched the first no-hit game in major league records in the late seventies, succeeded in keeping the initial sack clean. The three no-hit games pitched by Richmond for Worcester were pitched without a runner reaching first, and John M. Ward, who pitched a hitless game for Providence against the Buffalo Nationals in 1880, kept first base free from runners. Cy Young did not permit a runner to reach first in his second hitless game in 1901, and Addie Joss turned back every Chicago batsman in the game he pitched in 1908. A feature in Joss's two no-hit games lies in the fact that both were pitched against the Chicago club.

The list of pitchers who have hurled more than one no-hit game follows:

ZELDA CROWNED QUEEN OF MAY

Impressive Ceremonies at High School Friday Afternoon—Prime Minister John Krom Bids Subjects Welcome—May Pole Dance on Lawn.

Friday was a most beautiful and appropriate day on which to crown a Queen of May. A large crowd of spectators were gathered in the auditorium of the high, when the ceremonies began with the singing of songs dealing with spring and gaiety.

Earl Reed Silvers, professor at Rutgers College, happened to be present on his annual visit to Kingston High School, so he was called upon to speak. He gave a most interesting description of a fellow in college catching the true source of things.

As soon as the applause had ceased, a trumpet was heard announcing the coming of the May Queen, Miss Zelda Neher, and her procession.

The school rose and remained standing until the queen had taken her position on the throne, in a bower of greens and flowers.

Prime Minister John Krom welcomed the people as follows:

As the year rolls on it brings to us the most magical of seasons, spring. The quick metamorphosis from the cold and bleak landscape of winter to one of verdure and blossom. Everything quickens and receives a new lease of life.

If you prefer the quick vision, Persephone has once more returned from her sojourn in King Pluto's domain; and good Dame Ceres, overjoyed because of her home coming, has decked everything in green.

We are gathered here on this occasion to celebrate May Day, to pay homage to the fair descendant of Persephone and to crown her Queen of the May.

Fair lady, it gives me infinite pleasure to place this crown on your brow and proclaim you Queen of the May. May your reign be ever joyous and successful.

After he had placed a crown of roses upon the May Queen's brow, she arose and replied in a most delightful manner.

My loyal subjects, I bid you welcome and I thank you for the honor you have given me. May Day has come, celebrated through the ages as the time when spring is ushered in from the buffeting of the March winds and the call of the April showers.

Three years ago, on a day as cloudless as this, several of our boys who gave their lives in foreign lands were gathered here, with others, to help celebrate their May Day.

We must needs think of them while we are in the midst of our gaiety. Soon we are parting, parting into paths unknown. But today, let us not think of that sad time, but let us be merry and glad, for it is spring and May, the month of flowers and happiness.

The exercises continued with selections by the orchestra, dancing and singing.

John Dett at the piano and James Carey with the violin comprised the orchestra, and it was most enjoyable music.

Solo dances were given by the Misses Elizabeth Koeniger, Margaret Richards and Katharine Kearney. They all danced with a pronounced ease and grace and brought out the joyousness of spring.

Solomon Rodney rendered two vocal selections, which were a very fine addition to the pleasant program.

Queen Zelda in her long robe of white, flowing hair and bright sunny smile, made a most beautiful queen and she was blessed with a real bright day on which to be crowned.

Friday was the first clear and bright May Day in five years.

The queen was attended by eight of the senior girls, dressed in flowing robes of white and carrying baskets of flowers. The attendants were: Leona Christiansa, Ruth Scott, Elizabeth DuPon, Frances Harder, Katharine McDermott, Catharine Carroll, Lila Phillips and Kathryn Barry.

The other attendants were the small children, Carlton Taylor, scepter bearer; Margaret O'Connor, crown bearer; Balby Crosby, Virginia Scudder, Virginia Brown and J. Warren Bartlett.

After the dancing, singing and other festivities in the auditorium the queen awarded the letters to the athletes of the various teams.

This consumed a good deal of time and following this the procession formed and marched out and around the campus, coming to a halt at the school steps.

The May Queen and her attendants then took their positions on the steps from where they could watch the winding of the May Pole.

The girls of the sophomore and junior classes, arrayed in blue bloomers and white middie, marched out on the lawn and very cleverly formed themselves in positions so that the letters "K. H. S." were made by their grouping.

The festivities of the day were brought to a close by the singing of the school song.

The names of those who received letters and numerals will be published later.

He Sells It Twice.
"Before any one of the department managers of a big western concern places any important new policy before the president for approval, he explains the plan in full to one of the other department heads, and obtains either his approval or his disapproval," says a writer in System, the Magazine of Business.

"Then if his plan is approved and he takes it to the president for his O. K., the fact that the other department head has indicated the plan makes it easier for the president to judge, without giving too much thought to the details. Furthermore, this method decreases the number of undesirable plans that are brought to the president's office; frequently, when one manager presents his plan to another, he is shown why it is not practicable, or how it would conflict with some fundamental principle."

Love Holds These Club Members Together

In a Salvation Army Maternity Hospital for Unwed Mothers. (Inset) A First Lesson in Housework Taught in a Salvation Army Home.

OUT-OF-LOVE Club members, whose little, nameless babies first saw the light of day in a Salvation Army Maternity Hospital, meet once a month in each of the twenty-three cities in this country in which there is a Salvation Army Maternity Home. They discuss their problems, their work, their gratitude to the organization that sheltered them when they were friendless, their plans for the future.
